

Jackie Roth Bio

When it comes to real estate, Jackie Roth offers unparalleled service to her buyers and sellers. Creative, determined, and perceptive, she delivers above-and-beyond results and has been consistently ranked in the top 3% of the entire Douglas Elliman network since 2005. A native New Yorker, Jackie knows the complex nuances of the real estate market across all neighborhoods. She has sold and rented apartments in the city's premier luxury buildings, and worked with clients ranging from high-profile names in entertainment, top-tier executives, and first-time homebuyers.

Jackie's passion for helping others extends well beyond her work in real estate. She is also an advocate for people with hearing impairments, and has used her personal journey to motivate and inspire others like her. Jackie is recognized nationally for her work with the deaf community and has a powerful network of clients and real estate professionals who call upon her expertise, whether it's in sign language or in English Jackie navigates New York's fast-pace real estate market using her sophisticated eye and the latest technology, yet she still believes that one-on-one personal service is the key to her success. With a seasoned background in business, consulting, fundraising and strategic marketing, Jackie brings a unique perspective to the real estate industry.

She has also enjoyed a successful television and film career, producing the Academy Award-nominated documentary "Sound and Fury." An avid traveler, Jackie taught theater in Nigeria and toured with Broadway companies all over the world.